

CAULIFLOWER PIZZA CRUST

INGREDIENTS

Florets from small head of cauliflower (you will not need much stem, save for another use)

1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

1/4 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

1/4 tsp kosher salt

1/2 tsp dried basil (crush with fingers before adding)

1/2 tsp dried oregano (crush with fingers before adding)

1/2 tsp garlic powder

dash red pepper

1 egg

PROCEDURE

Preheat oven to 450F. Place pizza stone or baking sheet in oven, and place large piece of parchment paper on counter and brush with olive oil.

Pulse raw cauliflower florets in food processor for 30 seconds OR grate with cheese grater until consistency of sand or snow. Aim for 2-3 cups of cauliflower "snow".

Microwave your cauliflower snow for 4 minutes, covered in a microwave safe bowl.

Empty cauliflower onto clean tea towel and let cool. Once cool enough to handle, wrap cauliflower in towel and wring vigorously. Squeezing as much water out as possible will give the crust a chewier texture.

Empty cauliflower into mixing bowl. Add the cheeses and all dry ingredients and stir, then add egg and mix with hands.

Form the dough into a crust on the oiled parchment paper with your hands. Pat it down so it is tightly formed together and of uniform thickness.

Slide parchment paper with dough onto the preheated pizza stone or baking sheet in oven, and bake for 8-11 minutes until golden in color and edges start to become crispy and brown.

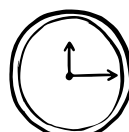

Now add sauce and toppings of your preference and bake for an additional 5-7 minutes.
